2016-2017 ANNUAL REPORT

TRANSFORMING LIVES & SYSTEMS

Our vision calls us to transform lives and systems, which is an ambitious endeavor. Yet, it's not nearly as daunting as it seems. Our task is simply to serve when we can, offer help where we see need, and do good at every opportunity. Saint Francis has long been an agent of transformation in the lives of those we serve. Through our widening work internationally, we also seek to transform systems by helping change policies and structures that negatively affect children and families.

So, here at home and in Central America, we are carrying out our mission by providing healing, comfort, respect, and presence – all with the expectation that we will effect fundamental changes to unjust systems that debilitate human dignity. This year, Saint Francis has initiated new ways to bring healing to trauma survivors and by collaborating to craft creative solutions to issues that threaten the safety and health of children and families.

In this annual report, you'll learn how Saint Francis is working with Episcopal dioceses and other local organizations in El Salvador and Honduras to address issues of poverty, violence, forced migration, and human trafficking. You'll also learn how Clover House is helping adolescent girls overcome the trauma of commercial sexual exploitation and how our Salina West campus is helping children heal through residential treatment, gardening therapy, and art therapy.

We transform lives and systems. Together. With your help, Saint Francis is on our way to being recognized nationally and internationally for transforming lives and systems in ways others believe impossible.

DONOR SPOTLIGHT

Ms. Glenna W. Kleinkauf
& Ms. Ann Elizabeth Bishop
Wichita, Kansas

GREAT-HEARTEDNESS

FOR THEM, STEWARDSHIP IS A WAY OF LIFE

They began teaching their children at an early age, with a 50-cent weekly allowance paid in nickels. One nickel always went to the church, the rest to spend as they pleased. As each child grew older, the allowance – and the tithe – increased. Their hope was that their children would carry the spirit of stewardship into adulthood.

Ann Elizabeth Bishop has lived by that spirit for most of her life. She became involved with The Episcopal Network for Stewardship (TENS) while serving as the administrative assistant at St. James Episcopal Church in Wichita. St. James is also where she met Glenna Kleinkauf who, like Ann Elizabeth, was taking a four-year Education for Ministry course offered through Sewanee Theological Seminary. They've been together 23 years. They received a blessing of their union in the Episcopal Diocese of Maryland 16 years ago and legally married two years ago in Kansas. They also raised five kids, the youngest of whom, Charlotte, grew up attending TENS conferences with Ann Elizabeth and Glenna.

It was through TENS that the couple met John Hoskins, senior philanthropic advisor for Saint Francis Community Services. John, in turn, introduced them to Saint Francis, and Ann Elizabeth and Glenna have been ardent supporters and treasured friends of the ministry ever since.

"We support Saint Francis because of what they do and how they do it," said Ann Elizabeth. "For us, they exemplify everything scripture teaches about stewardship. Many people think it's just about giving away money, but it's more than that. Stewardship is about using your talents and gifts and about being grateful for the good things in your life. I know that for many of these children, Saint Francis is the best thing that's happened to them. Saint Francis helps them discover and make the most of their talents and gifts. That's what makes this ministry so unique; it nurtures the whole person."

That notion lies at the heart of their relationship with Saint Francis.

"They try to make every child feel important, and they treat their donors the same way," said Ann Elizabeth. "They are conscientious and personal, and they work hard to keep us informed about where our money goes. That's important because we work hard for our money and don't like the thought of anyone being careless with it."

In other words, good stewardship goes both ways. As Ann Elizabeth and Glenna like to say, "Stewardship is everything you do, with everything you have, all the time."

That motto guides them in their giving, inspiring them to provide support year after year and to remember Saint Francis in their estate planning.

"Who do you want to determine where your possessions go after you've left the world?" asked Glenna, "You or the state? We don't have a lot, but we figure every little bit helps. Besides, we're all just caretakers of what we own anyway. If we can help an organization like Saint Francis grow and continue its work, then why not?"

"We're not going to be around forever, and one day, these kids will be running the world. We need to teach them now how to love and how to care so they can take their place in the world and help make it better. Hopefully, they'll remember what Saint Francis did for them."

Charlotte remembers. As a young girl, she regularly contributed part of her allowance to Saint Francis' equestrian program at Salina West. Now 29 and preparing to marry, she still gives. She still carries the spirit of stewardship instilled by her parents - and the lives of other children have been made better because of it.

"The bottom line? It's the kids," said Glenna. "That's the piece that does it for me, that's why we give. We do it for the kids. That's the beauty of stewardship. You can keep changing the world long after you're gone."

GENEROSITY

Saint Francis does nothing alone. Every healed heart, every restored life, every new beginning starts with someone who chose to give. The generosity of our friends nourishes and sustains the programs and services that are so vital to those we serve. Thank you for giving and for making this life-affirming work possible.

Thank You!
